

Lifewide Learning and Education in Universities & Colleges E-Book

The purpose of the e-book is to recognise and celebrate the many different ways in which universities are encouraging, supporting and recognising lifewide learning and personal development. The book enables people who are involved in leading, managing, supporting and researching student development through co- or extra-curricular skill-based awards, credit bearing modules or other schemes and activities to gain an overview of practices in this important emergent educational field.

The e-book will be launched at the Learning Lives conference in March 2014 but the intention is to continue adding articles so that it becomes an evolving source of knowledge for practitioners and researchers.

If you would like to contribute a 3000 to 6000 word article of how your university or college is encouraging, supporting and recognising lifewide learning and development please complete this form and send it to the commissioning editor Professor Norman Jackson lifewider1@btinternet.com.

PROPOSAL SUBMISSION FORM

Title of article

Author(s)

300 word summary of:

- essential elements of scheme/activity
- themes, issues and challenges that will be addressed

Anticipated date of submission

Contact details of author

Email

Telephone

*****

Please send your proposal to the Commissioning Editor
Professor Norman Jackson lifewider1@btinternet.com